EDITORIAL COMMENT

There is a musical event this afternoon, in Washington, that next to the Disarmament Conference, is quite the most important happening in the United States today. It is no less than the advent of Richard Strauss, one of the greatest of contemporary composers of music. He is to play and interpret his own music—a music which has baffled and mystified the lovers of that art for a score of years or more.

Music, which is sound produced by vibration—the waves reaching the auditory nerves at the right velocity—neither too slow nor too fast—and through the auditory nerves reaching the brain of man. Reaching the brain—and then what? Stirring and arousing the soul with emotions too subtle for utterance. And then what? Ask the sub-conscious self—for else there can be no answer. Music, says a renowned psychologist, "is the speech of the soul as it awakens to a communion with the great harmonies of the spiritual universe." Words are the speech of Thought; but music is the speech of the emotions—which are as much deeper than thought, as thought is the illimitable beyond of words.

There are laws that govern music: it has been the task of the human brain to discover these laws since the first rude drum invented by some prehistoric cave-man. The great geniuses of music, like Beethoven, Chopin, Wagner, have, from time to time discovered these laws and given new spheres of enjoyment to the human race. Newton—Kepler—Galileo—these have made no more important researches into the mysteries of the universe than have the great masters of the realm of music.

We shall make pilgrimage to Washington this afternoon and listen to one of these great voyagers on the shoreless seas of harmony. If words do not fail, we shall endeavor to give some account to our readers, however inadequate, of what we hear.

Bernard Shaw is a brilliant Irishman, of the wittiest of his race. He is so brilliant and so witty that ordinary people cannot tell, half the time, whether he is in jest or in earnest. One of his latest escapades is to say that England is "heading straight for a war with America for the command of the seas, and nothing can avert it but a complete renunciation on all sides of that monstrous pretension, and with it of the cowardly dream of absolute security."

Shaw has but just finished a Battle of Words with Henry Arthur Jones, the playwright, an episode which has contributed to the uncontrolled gayety of nations! Jones has started another controversy by saying that "it will take two thousand years to bring the Americans into war with England." Shaw retorts that England will consent to give up anything of America except her supremacy of the seas. This, he says, Mr. Lloyd George keeps shouting at America, at Ireland, and at everyone who gives him an excuse for repeating it. In conclusion, he adds that Jones "is following the star of Bethlehem through a pastoral landscape to a general exchange of Christmas cards in a Temple of Peace and Good-Will to all men. And"—he says—"we know too well the hysterical madman he will become when the cannon goes off." For want of better argument, Jones has called Shaw a "diabolical criminal anarch!" At this distance, and at the present stage of this right pretty quarrel, we should be inclined to say honors were easy!

From time to time we tell our readers that wonders never cease in the Movie World. Almost each week sees a new triumph of human skill and invention in the Films. We are going to briefly describe one of the very latest. By way of preface, we might say that we write nothing in our editorial columns, or in our editorial comment, that is related, even in the nth degree, to advertising. We have refused even the courtesy of a pass to all our local movie theatres, because we wish our columns to be free from any possible taint. We consider that praise or criticism of the Screen is legitimate news of one of the greatest educational forces in the world today. We are free to rebuke or to praise, as occasion demands.

Today we are going to say just a little in praise of a Movie that will show in Alexandria next Monday and

JAPAN VICTOR IN SHANTUNG DECISION GIVEN

Obtained Goal She Aimed For Before Arms Conference

HAS BEEN TOKIO'S AIM

To Remain in Manchuria—This Stand Regarded as Final—Naval Tonnage Agreement Still Blocked.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Japan, after careful maneuvering in the several fields of discussion by the Arms Conference, agreed today with alacrity to a plan for disposing of the Shantung difficulty. Under this plan Japan and China will attempt to reach an agreement by themselves.

Japan, it is felt, gained a decided victory, for this has been the goal at which she aimed. But it is a cause for relief outside the Orient, for, if the main Chino-Japanese difficulty is removed, Japan is expected to accept without great delay not only the 5-5-3 naval basis but also various other proposals on which the other powers may agree.

At the same time Japan explained the functions of her troops in China and reaffirmed the intention to withdraw them from various points—but not from South Manchuria, where continuance is an "absolute necessity." This is regarded as final, regardless of compromises on other Chinese questions.

Italy is now expected to take the lead in calling for a plan to fix land armaments. The French are opposed to it.

Although Japan made her formal demand for the 10-10-7 naval ratio and the naval experts were compelled to turn the matter back to the main Conference, it remains the belief that the 5-5-3 Hughes plan, firmly backed by Great Britain and American will be accepted next week.

BARON TO VISIT HERE

Prominent South American Banker to be Guest of R. S. Barrett

Baron Frederic Portalis, President of the firm of Portalis & Co., Ltd., International Bankers and Merchants of Buenos Aires and Paris, arrived on the S. S. "Ebo," at New York on Monday, en route from Buenos Aires to Paris. Baron Portailis is accompanied by Baroness Portalis, and will remain in New York for several weeks before proceeding to his home. He is stopping at the Ritz-Carlton. He will arrive in Alexandria Friday night to spend several days with Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Barrett.

Baron Portalis, who comes from a long line of French financiers, has been interested in the Argentine for more than forty-five years. He went to Buenos Aires in 1877 and established the firm which bears his name. He is credited with being the father of three of the most important industries in the Argentine, namely, the production of quebracho extract, the planting of alfalfa, and the sugar industry.

The firm also does a large export and import business between France, England, United States and Argentine. In 1917 they established an office in New York, and the firm has taken an important part in the development of trade relations between the United States and the Argentine.

Baron Portalis is also President of the Caja de Credito Hipotecario of Buenos Aires, and is a Director of the following companies: The Forestral Land, Timber and Railways Co., Ltd., London; Leach's Argentine Estate, Ltd., London; Picardo & Co., Ltd., Buenos Aires; Caisse Hypethecaire Argentine, Paris; Compagnie du Port Commercial de Bahia Blanca, Paris; The Corocoro United Copper Mines of Bolivia, Ltd., London and Paris. During the war he was chief of the French Commercial Mission to the Argentine. This is his first visit to the United States and he is greatly impressed with New York.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Dec. 1.—Despite Japanese reluctance to accept the Hughes proposals of ratios between the navies of the United States, Great Britain and Japan, there was an air of utter confidence in Washington today that the end of this week will see a complete naval agreement that can be signed almost at once. This confidence comes from no official statement, but from talks, conferences and private opinions of the delegates of all nations, who seem so certain of the ultimate success of the naval agreement that there is little doubt but that private understandings have cleared the way for concrete results in a short time.

The definite impression is that the Japanese will get the Mutsu, superdreadnaught, in return for a concession on the naval ratio whereby she will agree to the Hughes 5-5-3 plan. It is understood that the world will be advised of the agreement on next Wednesday which is now the earliest day set for a plenary session.

China's demand that the Japanese troops occupying the province of Shantung shall be withdrawn is about to be realized. At the conclusion of today's meeting of the committee on Far East and Pacific questions it was indicated very clearly that the withdrawal of the Japanese troops from Shantung would be an accomplished fact just as soon as China and Japan could get together for a discussion of the terms by which such an arrangement is to be brought about. This problem will be settled outside the conference itself, but further time will be necessary in order to provide for the necessary steps that are to follow the real agreement.

Col. William Boyce Thompson, chairman of the committee on general information of the advisory committee to the arms conference is at work preparing data and information respecting public opinion throughout the country regarding the use of "viper" methods of warfare, such as poison gas, submarines, bombing planes and the like.

Colonel Thompson is sounding the sentiment of the country with respect to the employment of such methods of warfare through editorial opinion and expressions from the public contained in the daily newspapers of the United States. Colonel Thompson declined today to state just what his investigation into this subject has developed or what he has discovered public opinion to be.

There is not the slightest doubt but that if these agencies of warfare are not abolished through international agreement their limitations will be confined to the battlefields and they will not be permitted to be used against non-combatants and defenseless sections of country.

According to the latest estimates that have been brought before the delegates to the arms conference, upwards of 20,000 persons, men, women and children, lost their lives through illegal submarine warfare during the world war. These persons were drowned, killed by explosions or died from exposure while aboard merchant vessels and fishing craft. Of this number, 13,233 were aboard British vessels of all descriptions, except those listed as naval vessels or doing naval duty, while 408 were aboard vessels flying the American flag, 66 before the United States entered the war and 342 after the United States cast its lot with the allies. No vessels are included which in any way can be classed as fighting craft. The total merely is one of non-combatants going about their peaceful missions, but victims, without fault of their own to outlaw warfare conducted by the Central powers.

Despite the fact that the examination for postmaster at Alexandria has been set for December 20 and that the office pays $3,300 a year, but one application has been received at the postoffice department for the job. This is Thomas H. Bayne. He has filed his papers with the department and desires to enter the race for appointment as postmaster to succeed Dr. William Smith, whose term expires January 24, next.

It was stated at the postoffice department today that in all probability many other applications for the postoffice in Alexandria will be in line before the date set for the examination. In the meantime, there is no indication forthcoming as to whom Representative Rascom Slemp, the Republican "boss" of Virginia, will recommend for the place.

IRISH CRISIS THOUGHT NEAR BY THE BRITISH

London Awakes To The Seriousness of the Situation

FIRM ON OATH UNITY

De Valera Says Ireland Wants Peace But Will Hold to Principles—Irish Altitude Unshaken.

London, Dec. 1.—All government business is giving way to the gravity of the Irish situation. Both government and Irish circles express the feeling that only a miracle can avert the collapse of the conference and a renewal of warfare.

It had been intended to hold a cabinet council tonight to consider German reparations in connection with the visit of Dr. Walter Rathenau, but this had to be postponed in order to permit the special cabinet committee dealing with Irish affairs to hold a sitting. Lord Birkenhead, due to speak at a political meeting in Liverpool, was obliged to stay in London. He sent a message of apology, explaining that his absence was owing to "grave public affairs."

Premier Lloyd George also wired to the meeting, explaining that Lord Birkenhead's presence in London was "imperatively demanded by the present position of the Irish negotiations."

A spokesman of Sinn Fein declared this evening that there was no intention on the part of Sinn Fein to alter its attitude regarding either unity of Ireland or allegiance to the crown.

Representatives of Sinn Fein took pains to deny formally the statement of a London paper that, first, Sinn Fein had consented to agree to a plan whereby Ulster could contract with an all-Ireland parliament, retaining her existing rights until or unless she changes her mind; second, to form an allegiance "which ought to be satisfactory to any British minister who is not purely a formalist"; third, the appointment of a boundary commission to determine the present political religious frontier of Ulster in order to distribute the populations between the North and the South on a more satisfactory basis.

Regarding the suggestion that the government will propose a new scheme to Ulster, Sinn Fein delegates say they are not concerned with it and refuse to share the government's responsibility for it. There was another session this evening of the British delegates, but nothing was forthcoming as a result of it.

Ennis, Ireland, Dev. 1.—Eamonn de Valera today delivered an address in the Town Hall here in which he declared if peace in Ireland was not brought about it would not be because "there is not the will on the part of Ireland to make it, but because those opposed to us in Ireland do not want to make peace with us."

"I may tell you," Mr. de Valera continued, "that we stand today, no matter what other peoples say, exactly where we stood and for the principles for which we stood four years ago. We have gone as far as we can go, consistent with those principles, for peace; we cannot and will not go any further. If we go further it would be for us to betray those principles which have been fought for by generations of Irishmen for the past 600 or 700 years."

DENBY REFUSES

Washington Dec. 1.—Pending a full investigaiton of the alleged shooting of Otto Lambrecht by M. M. Hanson, a marine mail guard, Secretary Denby will refuse to turn the marine over to Wisconsn State courts for trial, it was said today at the Navy Department.

The Naval Secretary has ordered a full investigaiton of the shooting of Lambrecht, who was detected by the marine in the act of attempting to steal a ride on a Northwestern Railroad train at De Pere, Wis. The secretary has advised Governor Blaine and Attorney General Morgan of his order.

Officers in the legal department of the navy do not believe that the marine will be turned over to the State authorities, but that he will be tried by a naval court.

Bible Thought for Today

THE LORD SUSTAINS:—They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength: they shall mount up with wings as eagles: they shall run and not be weary: and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isaiah 40:31.

VIRGINIA NEWS PARAGRAPHED

Williamsburg.—John Barton Payne, of Chicago and Washington, will be the principal speaker at the 145th annual celebration of the Phi Beta Kappa society, which will be held at the College of William and Mary, home of the Alpha, or "mother" chapter, on the night of December 5. Judge Payne presided over the superior court of Cook county, Ill., before he became counsel for a Western railroad. His legal work with this road led to his appointment as general counsel for the United States railroad administration, and later to a similar position with the United States shipping board. In 1920, he became secretary of the interior under President Wilson. He has been practicing law in the East since the close of Wilson's administration.

Christiansburg.—One of the most horrible murders in recent years was committed about one mile north of the courthouse in East Cambria Sunday night when Leslie Carter shot and instantly killed his wife, Omie Carter, near the front door of their residence, and made good his escape before officers could arrive on the scene. From best obtainable information and the evidence before the coroner's inquest, it seems that Carter left his home for Christiansburg, where he works in a garage, leaving his wife and her mother, and two white men, R. C. Iddings and H. C. Yearout, at his house. Carter returned later, coming by his father's who lived near his home, and got a single barrel shotgun, and stood on the outside of his house, and when his wife was passing the door just inside he fired the entire load into her head at close range, killing her instantly.

Fredericksburg. — Former State Senator R. C. L. Moncure, of Stafford county, is being urged by his friends for the seat in the state industrial commission, now held by Charles A. McHugh, of Roanoke. Mr. Moncure was the collector of internal revenue for this federal district under the Wilson administration. The salary of a member of the state industrial commission is $4,000 per year.

Hampton.—As the result of a general round-up in Phoebus, three artillerymen from Fort Monroe have been turned over to the army authorities on charges of selling government property, which they are alleged to have stolen from the big army post. The men are Privates William Pruitt, LeRoy Williams and Freeman. They are charged with stealing a number of blankets and bicycles from the post at Old Point.

Lynchburg.—City Manager Beck, in connection with the preparation for the city budget for 1922 here, has given the city council a tentative idea of what he has in mind to recommend for the coming year, which would include along with general street improvements, the building of an athletic stadium at Thirteenth and Court streets on city owned property; conversion of the present city market and city auditorium into a city hall. This work, and the two new school buildings already authorized at a cost of $300,000, will require a bond issue of $500,000, which it is proposed to sell at 5 per cent.

Norfolk.—Lieutenant Augustus J. Selman died last night from injuries received when the land plane, in which he was a passenger, crashed to the ground at the naval base yesterday afternoon. The pilot, Lieutenant Anthony Fehr, was seriously injured, but his recovery is believed certain.

THE REVIVAL SERVICES

The evangelistic meetings at the First Baptist Church are being largely attended and last evening they rose to the high tide of power. Th Rev. Mr. Brannock, spoke upon the "Valley of Decision," and declared that three things held many in such a condition, namely, false notions of religion, lack of normal courage and the pleasures of life. He emphasized strongly the religion of Jesus Christ gives a great deal more than it takes away. Quite a number came forward last night. Rev. Mr. Brannock introduces many illustrations out of his own experience.

He was Chaplain at Camp Lee during the war and recites vividly the happenings connected with the tragedies of the days when nine hundrd men were carried out of camp, the victims of the influenza. The topic tonight will be, "The Peace-Giving Christ," and another large congregation will be present. The chorus choir is doing faithful and effective work.

"Well, dear," she said, "what languages did you decide to take?"

"I have decided to take Pictish mother," he replied.

"Pictish?" said the puzzled lady. "Why Pictish?"

"Only five words of it remain," he said.—Railroad Red Book.

Oehlert Admits The Shooting of Briscoe

Only Defense Is That Rocks Were Hurled At His Car After He Started

FINAL ARGUMENTS BEGUN TODAY

Accused Man's Testimony Shaken Under Cross Examination—Makes Poor Witness For Himself—Oehlert Says He Did Not Know He Had Shot Briscoe Till Next Morning When He Was Arrested.

When William H Oehlert today took the stand at his trial at Fairfax Courthouse for the slaying of Henry Briscoe He admitted the shooting of Briscoe, but added that he did not know he had shot anyone till the next morning when the police called at his home to arrest him His only defense was that rocks were hurled at his car by the Briscoe party.

On being cross examined by Acting Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson Farr, Oehlert proved a bad witness for himself and at different times became badly twisted in his testimony, Oehlert appeared nervous and plainly showed the effects of the strain he was under.

The accused man was on the witness stand about an hour. Afterward the defense rested its case, and final arguments were begun at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The case may not be given to the jury till tomorrow although it is possible that it may reach the jury late this afternoon. Judge Brent announced that he would not limit the attorneys in their arguments. The testimony of Oehlert was substantially to the effect that he obtained an old pistol from a man named Williams the day of October 15 and at 5 o'clock that afternoon he was to take a man in the country across Hunting Creek and simply got the weapon for a "bluff."

Next Oehlert told of the circumstances leading up to the affair. He said he and Burnett took a trip in his, Oehlert's car. Late that evening while they were driving, Oehlert said that they ran across the Briscoe party on the Camp Humphreys road a few miles south of Alexandria and there was a row in progress where he saw some cars had stopped. According to Oehlert he got out of his own car and went up to see what the trouble was. He then went back to where the men were and he asserted they had rocks in their hands and they got after him and chased him around his car he claimed. He also claimed the men had been drinking.

Oehlert then said that he got a pistol from Richard Stuart at the time Stuart being in his own car, he having requested Stuart to give him the pistol. Afterward Oehlert declared he fired one shot into a nearby ditch for the purpose of scaring the men.

Witness claimed that he then got into his car and placed the pistol on the seat of his car and started toward Alexandria. The men in the Briscoe party at this juncture he asserted threw rocks, one of the rocks striking him on his shoulder. Oehlert then said that he took his pistol in his right hand and fired from the back of his car while the machine was running he using his left hand to steer the car with. Oehlert was unable to tell the jury just how many shots he fired. Afterward Oehlert says he drove to Alexandria and he saw Richard Stuart and returned the pistol to Stuart. When he fired the shots he did not intend to hit any one he claimed. Oehlert added that he did not know he had shot anyone till the next morning when the police arrested him at his home.

Mrs. Oehlert, wife of the prisoner, produced a small stone which she claimed she found in the automobile of her husband. Mrs. Oehlert also told of two dents in the car of her husband evidentally made with stones.

Police Sergt. Wilkinson testified that Mrs. Oehlert had told him that her daughter found the stone in question in the car and he also testified that he was unable to discover any dents in the car such as described by Mrs. Oehlert.

There were about 100 persons attending the trial today. Considerable interest is manifested by residents of Fairfax county over the outcome of the case. The opinion around Fairfax today is that the state has established an unusually strong case against Oehlert.

The afternoon session of circuit court at Fairfax, which is trying William H. Oehlert on a first degree murder charge in connection with the fatal shooting of Henry Briscoe on the night of October 15 was resumed yesterday with Richard P. Cralle on the witness stand.

On direct examination conducted by Acting Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr, Cralle had testified to the events leading up to the alleged shooting. He stated that after the altercation between himself and Richard Stuart, and after Stuart had got into his own car and had pulled

FREED BY JURY

Noble Smith Acquitted In Ten Minutes

Noble Smith, charged with attacking Mrs. Ethel Ellmore, was acquitted by a jury in the corporation court at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon. After being out only ten minutes the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. C. Page Waller was foreman of the jury. The case was submitted to the jury without argument. The alleged attack took place the night of October 4. Mrs. Ellmore claimed that at the time she was enroute from Armory Hall to her home.

THE CAMERON CLUB

Tomorrow night at the Young Peoples Building, the Cameron Club is to be honored by some of the most prominent women in club life, as well as celebrities of international reputation But in Mrs. Winter, the president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, lies the chief attraction. She is always a most delightful speaker, yet at this time there is an added interest in her address, for she will tell of the work of the Peace Conference, at whose deliberations she sits day after day and takes her part in the council of those open diplomacies openly arrived at ,and obtains the value of the point of view of the other nations.

To the distinguished out-of-town guests, the Cameron Club will give an informal reception at the home of one of its members, Miss Katherine G. Uhler as Miss Uhler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Uhler have for this occasion offered their hospitable home to the Cameron Club.

A HERO'S FATE

The Lost Battalion had not only a leader for a hero—but the whole battalion was composed of heroes; privates, corporals, sergeants, lieutenants, captains—all! But the Colonel, who sent the message to the Germans to go to Hades, when summoned to surrender because surrounded by an overwhelming force of the enemy—the Colonel has just committed suicide by leaping overboard from a vessel bound to the tropics, on an absolutely quiescent voyage.

Why is this?—May we not ask—or say—to paraphrase—that it is due almost entirely to the over-emphasis of the Ego! Our soldiers, our officers, our nurses, our patriots in every branch of service, civil or military, went through the most thrilling crisis ever vouchsafed to mankind thitherto!—Each was imbued with the idea that he, or she, was an important cog in the vast machinery of a world-war. Perhaps the most important cog! It is this spirit that really creates the incomparable spirit of esprit-de-corps! With which the army is all—without which it is nothing! That may be called the secret of Napoleon's successes—his almost daily bulletins to his soldiers—in which he attributed all the fortunes of his arms to them—and gave all the responsibilities of the future to their efforts!

This is, indeed, an accentuation of the Ego—which can be kept up and sustained during the strenuous action of the battles of war—but which must inevitably have its reaction in the ensuing scenes of peace.

Poor Whittlesey! Having been part and parcel of one of the most thrilling and nerve-exciting moments of glorious history—to be suddenly thrust back into the nerveless and tranquil affairs of daily, warless existence—what wonder that life had become for him, weary, stale, flat, and unprofitable!

All of which is a warning that we must view this little life of ours as merely a moment of eternity! We must learn to view all human existence as merely prefatory—sub specie aeternitatis—as wise Spinoza said—under the guise of eternity! Then only shall we obtain the true perspective—and trust to a wise and omniscient Creator, that all is ordered for the best. That if we do what each moment dictates according to our conscience—that infallible mentor—the future is ordered for us as it should be—and there is nothing to worry about!

Poor Whittlesey! Prepared by nature for all the exigencies of war—but unprepared by education or religion for the reactions of peace!

Editorial Comment

Tuesday—especially flattering because we are to have it even before our big neighbor, Washington.

The play is entitled "The Girl From God's Country," and the star, Nell Shipman, has dramatized it from her own story. She has already won a name for herself in the film drama, and has shown all the elements of genius. The silver screen in this latest demonstration fairly reeks with the balsamic odors of the Big North Woods. A team of malamute dogs; wild-cats; wolves; Brownie, Miss Shipman's pet Alaskan bear and co-star; the glittering constellations of polar skies high above the frozen solitudes of an endless wilderness; all the varying passions of men let loose in a lawless land; a sinking canoe in the swirl of icy waters;—this and these form the thrilling mise-en-scene of part One of this strange drama of love, adventure, revenge and hate. Part Two takes us to the Pacific shores of California. An aeroplane duel some six thousand feet in the air; a burning hangar with a hair-raising rescue; a leap for life or death in a wind-tossed parachute; a lovers' meeting in the land of cherry-blossoms; a hint of softest wedding-bells on the scented air,—these form a startling contrast to the forepart of the drama, and the happy close brings peace and contentment after an hour or two of curdling thrills.

British Tendency Toward Large Capital Organization

A strong tendency toward large capital organization is evident in the industrial and financial life of Great Britain, according to the National Bank of Commerce in New York. Wartime expansion and post-war foreign competition, it declares, have led to consolidation and larger resources at the expense of the smaller individual enterprises.

"The impulse toward consolidation of interests and resources which produced in America the United States Steel corporation, the Standard Oil company and the Ford organization has in recent years been felt with particular force in British industry," the bank says in the December issue of its magazine, Commerce Monthly. "The desire for expansion of enterprise during and after the war and the need for liquid capital to maintain expanded enterprise in the face of tightening conditions were alike conducive to enlarging the capital of commercial and industrial companies. Fear of foreign competition emphasized the desirability of eliminating by amalgamation or agreement major competition at home and of securing the resulting economies in production. Either course tended to produce large organizations with extensive capital resources at the expense of the smaller individual enterprises which have played so large a part in the industrial life of Great Britain.

"Besides new organizations which sought capital during 1919 and 1920, numerous long established companies increased their capital either for the purpose of expanding business, extending plant or purchasing allied concerns.

"New issues of capital for commercial and industrial purposes in Great Britain in 1920, exclusive of conversion loans, bonus shares, and shares issued to vendors, amounted to about three times pre-war issues for the same purposes, as compared with twice the pre-war amount in 1919. In the first nine months of 1921, however, the general business depression was clearly reflected in a marked decrease of new capital issues. The largest relative expansion occurred in the iron, steel, coal and related industries, miscellaneous commercial and industrial enterprises, banks, motor traction and breweries.

"A second characteristic of the period is the number of amalgamations which took place. This was in many instances but the continuation of a movement which had been going on even prior to the war, notably in the iron, steel and coal, and the textile industries.

"In contrast with the elaborate anti-trust laws of the United States, the common law is practically the only check upon combinations in Great Britain. It holds null and void agreements in restraint of trade, but it has been broadly construed and considerable weight is given to freedom of contract, so that combination is not prohibited. Existing combinations range all the way from associations somewhat resembling the German cartel, in which each firm retains its identity and its independence in all save certain specific matters controlled through amalgamation or through share ownership in subsidiary companies. Many of the largest capital issues in 1920 were for this purpose. Corporations or holding companies of this kind do not require for their success the inclusion of practically an entire industry and they make possible economies of production as well as regulation of output and selling price. Their effect upon dominance in the field of industry concerned, but through the advantages of large scale organization they can exist on a competive basis while a monopolistic position is being attained.

"The tendency toward large scale organization of industry and capital is a natural step in the progress of industrial evolution. It provides greater resources, encourages the development and interchange of technical knowledge, makes possible economies of production, and lessens the variety, if not always the severity, of competition. There are, however, off setting influences to this development. The size of plant and organization which can be handled economically under single control has definite limits. Moreover, the effect of large scale organizations upon the whole economic and social structure cannot be overlooked. The far-reaching results of the failure or disintegration of a large concern might tend to prolong its existence beyond economic usefulness. The influence upon workmen, likewise, of a scale of production which destroys the sense of craftsmanship is already being felt throughout the industrial world in unrest and loss of efficiency.

"Great Britain appears still to be under the influence of centripetal forces. In some of the most important industries, which had long since sought the international market for their products, the tendency toward consolidation appeared before the war, and recent developments represent merely a continuation and to some extent an acceleration of the movement. Other industries seem definitely to have arrived at this stage of progress since the war. In general, the movement appears not to have advanced so far in Great Britain as in the United States. In the face of keen international competition, both prospective and actual, however, British industry appears to be approaching rapidly to the stage of large corporate organization."

Dr. Lorenz Astounded

New York, Dec. 1.—Dr. Adolf Lorenz, famous Viennese orthopedic surgeon went through another hard day today. At the morning clinic at the New York Hospital for Joint Diseases he passed upon 297 cases.

He had luncheon with Dr. Frauenthal, head of the hospital; then took a short rest. In the afternoon he diagnosed some 300 cases at St. Mark's Hospital. In the evening he dined in private with a friend and retired early in an effort to recuperate his strength.

According to Dr. Walter L. Gallard, of the Joint Disease Hospital staff, who spoke for Dr. Lorenz while he rested, the Viennese is astounded at the demand for his services.

H said not noly had crippled children and adults swarmed upon him for help, but he had 2,000 requests from outside New York.

"I am amazed to think that the American people have not gone to their own surgeons." Dr. Lorenzo himself said. "These people have apparently come to me for help and I have apparently aroused these patients out of thir lassitude and indifference. I saw a patient today who was about 20 years old and who could have been cured when I was here 18 years ago. This young man did not even ask for help.

HONORARY CHAIRMAN

Richmond, Dec. 1.—Governor elect E. Lee Trinkle has been appointed honorary state chairman for Virginia of the Near East Relief effective with his inauguration February 1 next, and has accepted, it was announced here today by Oliver J. Sands, State Chairman.

Governor-elect Trinkle will succeed Governor Westmoreland Davis at this post when the latter retires from office. Senator Trinkle was district chairman at Wytheville for this great humanitarian organization before starting his campaign for Governor and put his counties "over the top" with greater quotas than has been done before or since.

Nov. 29, 1921.

Mr. Oliver J. Sands, State Chairman, Virginia Division, Near East Relief, Richmond, Va.

Dear Mr. Sands:

It is with pleasure that I accept the position of Honorary State Chairman for Virginia of the Near East Relief effective with my inauguration as Governor February 1st next, just tendered me.

In this connection I wish to say that I do not know of a more worthy charity than helping the thousands of orphans of Armenian martyrs who have died for their heroic refusal to renounce Christ and all that He stood for and become Mohammedans.

Before beginning my campaign for Governor, I was district chairman for your organization at Wytheville and as such gave as much of my time to your cause as I could. As Honorary State Chairman I shall be glad to do whatever my limited time will permit and wish I could do more.

Wishing your organization the best of success, I remain,

Very truly yours,

(Signed) E. Lee Trinkle.

A number of new appointments to the state executive committee effective the first of the year will be announced soon, Mr. Sands declared. This list is said to contain the names of some of the most prominent men in the state, a number of whom have accepted.

Pool Controlling Eggs

Chicago, Dec. 1.—An egg pool formed by three men controls the egg supply of Chicago and makes a profit of about $30,000 a day, Russell J. Poole, city food expert, announced today following an investigation covering two weeks.

Approximately 5,000 packages were addressed to business men and were announced as samples. Orders, postoffice and customs officials said, were solicited for purchases of larger quantities. Samples of the powder were sent to chemists for analysis.

Henri Landru Doomed

Landru was sentenced to die by the Guillotine.

To all the 48 questions which the court submitted to the jury on the questions of the guilt, innocence or mental capacity of the prisoner there was a verdict of guilty of premediated murder. No extenuating circumstances were included in this verdict.

Landru had borne himself throughout the lengthy trial without showing the slightest weakness, and he heard the sentence of death imposed upon him without emotion.

The jury required three hours, including a brief respite for dinner, to prepare their replies to the 48 questions the court submitted to it.

Letter From President Harding

The Virginia Tuberculosis Association has received a copy of the following letter from President Harding to the managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association.

"The White House, Washington.

November 10, 1921.

My dear Dr. Hatfield:

I am glad to note the splendid success of the campaign against tuberculosis, as shown by the decline of the death rate in 1920, to the remarkably low level of 114 per 100,000. The enormous saving of life reflected by these figures clearly indicates the success of the work of the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated organizations.

As honorary vice president of the association, I will be glad to have you convey to all who are interested in the prevention of tuberculosis, my earnest hope that the coming 14th annual Christmas Seal sale may be completely successful, in order that your splendid work may be further developed. I trust that there may be a generous response to your appeal.

Very sincerely.

(Signed) Warren G. Harding."

Food Remittances, Instituted by Hoover, Save Many Russian Families from Death

Registered Return Receipt Requested
AMERICAN RELIEF ADMINISTRATION EUROPEAN CHILDREN'S FUND
37, EATON SQUARE, LONDON S. W. 1
S/S Adriatic

The package shown at the right means life to 800 Russian families like this one, consisting of father, mother and eight children, which the photographer snapped as they were in flight from their home in the heart of the famine zone. The smiles on the faces of the youngsters are due to the fact that the cameraman found some white rolls in his gripsack and passed them out before he posed the refugees alongside the road.

Tens of thousands of the inhabitants of the vast territory swept by drought are fleeing, they know not where, in search of something to eat. The total population of the famine area is about 15,000,000, according to Colonel William N. Haskell, director of the American Relief Administration's Mission to Russia, while as many more inhabit the food shortage belt and are rapidly nearing a state of starvation.

That's where the package in the picture comes in. When the American Relief Administration discovered that its free mass feeding of 1,200,000 Russian children this winter would not even take care of half of the little sufferers, not taking the grown-ups into consideration at all, Herbert Hoover, chairman of the organization, broached to the Soviet authorities the feasibility of instituting a Food Remittance system whereby friends and relatives residing in America could purchase for adult famine victims at an expenditure of from $10 to $50, a maximum quantity of the most highly nutritional food and receive assurance that it would be delivered to the adult persons they designated in Russia. The Soviet authorities gave their approval and for several weeks remittances have been going forward.

The package pictured above comprised the first eight hundred $10 remittances forwarded from New York on the Adriatic. They were dispatched from the A. R. A. offices in London by courier to Moscow and from there distributed among the warehouses, all stocked with foodstuffs, near the homes of the recipients. The warehouse notifies the adult in whose favor the remittance is drawn to come and get the food. He receives flour, condensed milk, beans, rice, hominy, cooking fats, sugar, tea or cocoa, and soap. No one could possibly purchase in the United States at retail and send to Russia anything like the quantity of food that is delivered by the Food Remittance plan. Besides that, the American Relief Administration assumes all the risk from the time the Food Remittance is purchased in America until the food is delivered to the adult recipient at a warehouse in Russia.

Applications to purchase Food Remittances may be made in person or by mail to the Russian Department, American Relief Administration, 42 Broadway, New York City. The applicant receives a blank which he must fill out according to instructions and return to the A. R. A. with a money order. Remittances may be purchased in units of $10 up to $50 for delivery to individuals, and up to $500 for delivery to recognized groups and institutions.

SPORTS

In a well played and exciting game last night at the Armroy Hall, the Crystal A. C. basketball team defeated the Comet A. C., of Washington, D. C., by the score of 35 to 34. The Crystal boys started off with a field goal by Owens and at the end of the first half were leading 21 to 11.

In the last half of the game the Washington boys rushed in two fresh men who began to show some flashy floor work, and before the final whistle had blown the Comet's had caught up with the local boys due to the snappy coging of Murphy, formerly of Gonzaga college. The work of Whitestone and Owens was the feature for the Crystals; while Murphy and Taylor were the bright lights for the Comets.

The Crystals will play the Carlisle A. C. from Washington Friday night at the Armory Hall. If you want to see a snappy game of basketball be sure to come down Friday and see the Crystals perform. They have already made a fine record in football and much is expected of them during the basketball season.

Food Remittances May Save Russia, Dr. Kellogg Says

Dr. Vernon Kellogg, who accompanied the first American Relief Administration food train into the famine districts of Russia, has just returned to the United States to report to the Hoover organization on conditions in that country of starving millions. Fifteen million people, Dr. Kellogg says, are in imminent danger of death from hunger and another fifteen million are approaching the danger point of food shortage, unless America comes to their aid.

In order that relatives in this country as well as others may have opportunity to save these people from certain extinction, the American Relief Administration has opened a Food Remittance Department at its offices, 42 Broadway, New York, where foodstuffs to the value of from $10 to $50 can be purchased in $10 amounts for delivery to any individual in Russia. Should the supplies be needed for an institution, $500 worth can be bought. Anyone wishing to make use of this system can, by applying to the Administration's New York office, receive a blank to be filled out according to directions and returned with a money order or check.

The remittances are then forwarded to Moscow for distribution to the various A. R. A. warehouses, at which the individual designated by the purchaser is notified to report for his supplies.

DARLING BABY BRIGHTENS HOME

Children's Laughter a Pleasing Sound

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to nineteen days is all they have lived. Before my next one was born I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old, and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says 'That is a very healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show these few lines to anybody."—Mrs. C. W. BENZ, 131 3rd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest to childless wives.

Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I would not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby girl. I suffered very little at childbirth, and I give all the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. JANSSEN, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette, Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says:

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. B. HELD, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by backache, irregularities, displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is regretfully looking forward to a childless old age, ask her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Are Your Feet Having a Nightmare?

Did you ever dream that you were bound so that you could not move, while walls were closing in on you, crushing, suffocating?

Your feet have that nightmare all day long if they're confined in shoes of unnatural shape, laced against a stiffshanked sole as if to a board.

The flexible-arch Cantilever Shoe literally wakes up your feet. It permits the arch muscles freedom to function so that they gain strength and give strong support to the bones of the arch, preventing any danger of flat foot. The circulation becomes full and free, the toes straighten out, and your feet come to life and offer thanks that their nightmare is ended.

Your whole body responds to the release, luxuriating in the new sense of comfort and well-being. Come in and try on a pair of Cantilevers—see how good-looking they are.

What kind of gasoline do traveling salesmen buy?

DRUMMERS who make dozens of calls a day, who drive further every week than most of us do in a month, know a lot about the efficiency and economy of different motor fuels. They nearly always ask for "Standard" Motor Gasoline.

This balanced gasoline gives quick starts, even when the motor has become chilled. It burns up completely, doesn't quickly choke the motor with carbon or ruin the lubricating oil with carbon and unburned gasoline. It runs the motor on a lean mixture and gives big mileage per gallon.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline leads the procession in all these essential qualities. It is the most perfectly balanced motor fuel we know of—the result of innumerable tests for economy and efficiency, perfected refining processes and the choice of the most suitable crudes.

In cold weather or hot, when it's dry and frosty, wet and muddy or hot and sunny, you'll travel the road more smoothly and get further on a gallon. And with less carbon trouble. You won't have to constantly adjust your carburetor. That's why city and country salesmen use balanced "Standard" Motor Gasoline.

You, too, want the best for your money. The best is "Standard" Motor Gasoline. Try it on your next filling. See how lively and powerful your car is, how promptly it starts, how easily it takes hard hills, how far you go on a gallon. One quality wherever you buy it, and for sale everywhere.

THURSDAY, DEC. 2, 1813.

A STRIKING COINCIDENCE.

How history repeats itself, perhaps the readers of news in The Gazette 108 years ago have noticed in the striking resemblance between the state of affairs and of the minds of men, then, and at the present time. We see the same cry of Humanity for Peace against the horrors of war, and in yesterday's news a commission was crossing the ocean for negotiations to end hostilities.

The following is an ode to our Heroes in the War of 1812. Many similar compositions appear today in memory of our Heroes of the World War.

(From the Port Folio.)
December 2.

Hail to the Heroes whose triumphs have brightened
The darkness which shrouded America's name,
Long shall their valor in battle that lightened
Live in the brilliant escutcheons of fame;
Dark where the torrent flow,
And the rude tempests blow,
The stormy clad Spirit of Albion raves;
Long shall she morn the day,
When, in the vengeful fray,
Liberty walk'd like as a God on the waves.

From the grasp of Old England the Trident of War.
Already the storm of contention has hurl'd,
The beams of our Stars have illumin'd the world.
Unfurl'd our Standard beats proud in the air:
Wild glares the Eagle's eye,
Swift as he cuts the sky,
Marking the wake where our heroes advance,
Compassed with rays of light,
Hovers he o'er the fight,
Albion is heartless—and stoops to his glance.

The Disasters of Our Armies in the North—It is with regret that we have been under the necessity of detailing the accounts of our disasters in the North. We have before us a circular, which was written by the great father of his country to his officers, dated 15th of April, 1782, in which after stating the circumstances of the country, as they then existed, he concludes as follows:

"The Commander in Chief concludes the above state of matters with the following observation—that offensive observation—that offensive operations, of whatever kind they may be (being generally the result of choice) ought to be undertaken with the consideration of all circumstances, and a moral certainty of succeeding: for besides involving the public in a heavy expense, which the situation of our affairs can illy afford; disgrace and censure scarce ever fail to attend unsuccessful plans; —while the enemy acquire spirts by, an dtriumph at our misfortune."

Olheart Admits the Shooting of Briscoe

up in front of Oehlert's car, Oehlert left his car and got on the right-hand running board of Stuart's Packard car and talked a while. Cralle, Hibbs and Briscoe were then, he said, standing close to the rear end of Oehlert's car. That Oehlert left the Packard and came back to his own ear, and, standing on the running board of the car had drawn a pistol on Cralle and said: "Don't put your hand on my car." Cralle stated he did not touch Oehlert's car, but walked to the front of it, when Oehlert drew another pistol and said, "get them in front of my car. Cralle says he then backed away from the car, and Oehlert then pointed his two pistols at Briscoe and Hibbs and ordered them to get away from his car. He said that then Richard Burnett, who was sitting in Oehlert's car, said, "Willie put those guns in your pocket and come on here for God's sake, and let's get away from here." He then said to the three men, "gentlemen, go ahead and don't let's have any trouble." The three men then started back to their own truck, and then, according to Cralle, the shooting started. Cralle stated he did not know whether Oehlert's car was moving at the time of the shooting or not. He stated that the three men had their backs to Oehlert, Briscoe in the center and Cralle and Hibbs on either side of him. When asked whether, previous to the shooting there had been any fight between any of his party and Oehlert, he replied that there had not; and in reply to a question he stated that there were no rocks thrown by any of his party. He said that to the best of his knowledge there were five shots fired; that when the shooting stopped he looked back and saw that Oehlert's car was in motion; that about this time Briscoe placed his hands at his back and said, "Dick, I'm hit." He said Briscoe walked to the truck and sat down beside it; that he and Hibbs went to the residence of Mr. Pierce Reed, across the road looking for a telephone; that not finding one they came back and found that Briscoe had got into the truck. Then they brought Briscoe to the Alexandria Hospial and notifed the police of the shooting.

On cross-examination by Mr. Burke, when relating again Oehlert's having drawn first one and then two pistols on him, and ordered him away from his, Oehlert's car, Cralle stated that he did not pick up any rocks to throw at Oehlert. Mr. Burke asked him if there were any threats made which would cause him to attempt to arm himself for self-defense and he replied in the negative. Mr. Burke asked, in apparent surprise, if he had not just sworn that Oehlert had drawn two pistols on him and threatened him with them, and asked if Cralle did not think that would justify his arming himself. Much to the amusement of he audience, Cralle said, "not with rocks." Mr. Burke then asked what sort of arms he thought such a siuation would call for, and Cralle said he thought it called for him to keep his mouth shut and get away from there.

Cralle stated that his party on reaching Alexandria about 7 o'clock on the night of the shooting went to Daniels' store, at Alfred and Oronoco streets, where they purchased groceries, from there they got some lunchroom where they got something to eat, then started back home. In answer to questions by Mr. Burke he stated that he had nothing to drink, and that, to the best of his knowledge and belief, neither had Hibbs or Briscoe. Asked what was in his truck when they came to town, he answered, "nothing." Mr. Burke then put this question: "In point of fact, did not you have liquor in that car that night, and ake it into Alexandria? When I say you I mean did you, or Mr. Hibbs, or Mr. Briscoe take it into Alexandria that night for the purpose of disposing of it?" This question was objected to by the commonwealth's attorney, but Cralle had already answered, "no sir." Mr. Burke then asked, "Who makes liquor down there in Briscoe's house?" This question was also objected to, and the objection sustained by the court.

At the afternoon session, Attorney Carl Budwesky conducted the questioning of witnesses for the defense, as well as Mr. Burke. With Cralle on the stand, the question was asked as to whether he heard anyone say: "There are three of them and three of us, and we might as well have it out right now." He replied that he did not hear such a statement or anything in regard to that.

Henry L. Hibbs, the third member of the Briscoe party, was then called to the stand and interrogated by Commonwealth's Attorney Farr. He identified a letter taken from the pocket of the coat worn by Briscoe at the time of the shooting as the one taken from the letter box by Briscoe just before the alleged altercation with Stuart began. The letter was addressed to Mrs. Margaret Cronin, from whom it was said Briscoe rented his place. Mr. Hibbs' testimony was practically a reiteration of that given by Cralle.

Sergeant of Police William J. Wilkinson, of Alexandria, was the next witness. He was shown an automatic pistol and asked whether it was the one belonging to Richard Stuart, and stated that it was the one, and that he had turned it over to Justice Troth, of Fairfax county. He testified that Oehlert was arrested at his home and brought to police headquarters at 5:10 o'clock on the morning of October 16, the day following the shooting. When asked whether Oehlert was in bed at the time of his arrest, Sergeant Wilkinson stated that he had not personally made the arrest; that Oehlert was arrested by Policeman Nowland, but that he understood Oehlert was in bed.

Commonwealth's Attorney Farr then made a motion that Richard C. Burnett be summoned as a witness for the court. Burnett had been considered a witness for the defense, and Mr. Burke objected to Mr. Farr's motion. Judge Brent, however, sustained the motion and Burnett was placed on he stand, to be questioned by Judge Brent, each side to have an opportunity of cross-examination.

Burnett was asked by Judge Brent to tell the jury what he knew about the shooting, and proceeded to state that on the evening in question he was standing on the corner of King and West streets, where he lives, when Oehlert came up in his car and asked Burnett to take a ride. Burnett says he demurred, as he did not feel like going anywhere. Oehlert then invited him to go to his house and have a drink and Burnett told him to first take a drink with him, which he said Oehlert agreed to; that they had one drink at Burnett's house, then another at Oehlert's; that they then got in the car and went to the top of Shooter's Hill. Burnett says he then wanted to return home, but Oehlert turned into Janney's Lane, passed by Judge Moncure's home to which he called Oehlert's attention, that was Stanton's store, then past old Cloud's Mill, back down Duke street extended, and finally turnd into the Camp Humphreys road and went on toward Camp Humphreys. That on their way back to town they drove up in front of a large touring car. Later Richard Stuart came up to Oehlert's car and Burnett asked Oehlert who it was. Oehlert told him "Dicky Stuart," and then Stuart called out, "Hello Captain Dick." Then he said Oehlert got out of his car and, walked back, and that these three men, (Cralle, Briscoe and Hibbs) came toward Oehlert's car, and he heard Oehlert say, "Don't put your hand on that car; that it is my car and don't you put your hand on it." Then he says he heard someone say, "I will put my hand on your car." He said this man did put his hand on Oehlert's car and then scratched a match on the fender of the car, or he thought it was a match. He said that then Oehlert went behind where Burnett was sitting in the car, and fired a pistol into a ditch at the side of the road. Burnett stated he then asked Oehlert to put his guns away, and asked the men to go home and not have any trouble. He said that Oehlert came back towards the left side of the car, and that he then had two pistols, one of which he put in his pocket, then got in the car and started away. He said that by that time Stuart's car was "down on the hill," and that if it was moving at all it was moving very slowly; that it looked to him as if it were standing still, because he kept his eye on the red light in the rear of Stuart's car. He said that at this time there were two cars coming up the hill. He said that as he and Oehlert were driving away from the three men some stones were thrown at their car, he did not know by whom; that he heard the stones bouncing along the concrete road, and that Oehlert turned and fired his pistol about five times through the rear window of the car. He said that later they caught up with Stuart's car; that Stuart asked Oehlert how many he had shot, and Oehlert replied that he had shot six.

In reply to a question from Mr. Farr, Burnett stated that he thought Oehlert's car had stopped at the time of the shooting; that he was positive the engine was running, but thought the car was standing still.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr, asked Burnett whether or not Mrs. Oehlert, wife of the accused man, and "another man" had not attempted to make him say that some of the stones which are alleged to have been thrown at Oehlert's automobile had entered the car.

"Mrs. Oehlert spoke to me about the stones but I told her that there were none in the car when I left it," said Burnett. "A man, whose name I do not know, also spoke of them, and insisted that some had been found in the automobile. To this I said: 'You better not try to place any in that machine, for there were none there when I got out of it.' That was all that was ever said to me regarding the stones."

Edward Patterson, who drove Stuart's car on the night in question, was the next witness. He was asked to state what, if anything, Oehlert said to him or to Stuart when Oehlert first got out of his car and came up their car. He stated Oehlert asked them if they had a gun; that he said no, but Stuart said his gun was in the pocket of the car; then that the gun was not in the pocket but was down beside the cushions. He said that Oehlert turned away from the car, and it looked to him as if Oehlert were pushing something down into the waistband of his trousers. When asked whether he or Stuart looked for the pistol after Oehlert left them, he said he did not, but Stuart did, and it was not in the car. He said he could not actually swear that the pistol was in the car; that he did not see it. When asked whether he saw Oehlert again between where he left him and Alexandria, he said that Oehlert passed them somewhere on the Hartbower road, and pulled over to the right of the road. That they were driving slowly, and that when they were just about abreast of Oehlert the latter said he would see them in town; that they folowed Oehlert to town and that when they got near Burroughs' feed store, they saw that Oehlert's car was standing still; that Stuart got out and went back to Oehlert's car, and when he came back he said: "He fired my gun; it is still warm." When asked whether any examination was made of the gun, Patterson said he started the car off, and Stuart took the gun and removed the magazine, and said it was empty. He said he did not give the gun to Oehlert, and he did not know that Stuart did.

Sheriff Allison, of Fairfax County, took the stand and testified that about 11 o'clock on the morning of October 16, the day that Briscoe died, he visited the latter at the hospital. That he asked Briscoe whether any stones had been thrown at Oehlert's car, and Briscoe replied that he did not know; that he was drinking. This was the first admission made that any of the party had been drinking on the night of the shooting.

George K. Pickett, who lives at the residence of Pierce Reed, just opposite the scene of the shooting, testfied that on the evening in question his attention was called by his daughted to loud and profane language in the road opposite the house; that he started out to the road to try to stop it, and just as he started he heard five shots fired in quick succession, and immediately afterward heard two automobiles start toward Alexandria. He said that directly afterward two men came to the house asking for a telephone and when told that there was none there, stated to him that a friend of theirs had been shot. He went with them to the road and found Briscoe evidently badly wounded. In answer to a question, he stated that there was no evidence of drinking that he could see, on the part of either Briscoe or the other two men, whom he afterwards found to be Cralle and Hibbs.

$50,000,000 Relief Loan Suggested For Russia

Riga, Dec. 1.—The United States government soon may be asked for funds, probably as a government loan, to be controlled by the American Relief administration, with which to supply sufficient food and seed grain to provide for the entire 15,000,000 of starving persons in the Russian famine district.

A loan, under the plans informally discussed by the relief administration in Russia, would not be made to the Moscow government, but to the provincial governments in the famine region, guaranteed by the central government and to be repaid at the time of the next harvest.

The amount of the loan would be somewhere in the neighborhood of $50,000,000, which the relief administration investigators believe would be sufficient to save virtually the entire famine situation.

Information concerning the prospective loan is as yet indefinite. The plan was brought to Riga by Walter Brown, European director of the relief administration, from Moscow.

According to Mr. Brown he has had sufficient satisfactory experience in Russia to warrant the statement that he would have no hesitation in extending further aid if the relief administration itself were financially able to do so.

28,000 Miles of Roads Built

Washington, Dec. 1.—Maryland's widespread reputation for splendid highways makes of special interest an announcement by the department of agriculture today that nearly 28,000 miles of good roads have been built during 1921.

"Road building," says the department, "has recovered from the setback received during the war, and prospects are bright for the future. Approximately 14,000 miles of roads have been constructed during the present season by the states in conjunction with federal aid, according to the bureau of public roads, and probably an equal amount independent of federal aid. More miles of improved roads have been built than during any other year.

"Cost of road grading and construction with local materials is down practically to the 1914 level.

"Prices of manufactured road materials tend downward. The present level is materially lower than that of a year ago."

The average college girl of today is an inch tallr than the college girl of 1860 and six or seven pounds heavier.

In spite of the repeatedly made observation that most newspaper readers read nothing but headlines, the effect of headlines on daily conversation is negligible. Suppose a couple of tennis players talked thus:

"How about a Net Tilt?"

"All right. I'll Clash with you."

Or two motorists:

"Why didn't you laud that motor trip?"

"I didn't go. Rain halted it."—F. P. A., in The New York Tribune.

PREPARE NOW for Baby's Coming

THE expectant mother owes it not only to herself to prepare for an easier delivery, but to her child who should be stronger, healthier and more robust thru her care and intelligence.

What is one of the most important things a mother-to-be should do?

The universal answer from thousands of experienced mothers is this: The mother-to-be should massage the muscles and nerves involved in the function of child-bearing, daily, with an application of Mother's Friend. Because—

Three generations of mothers record the virtue of Mother's Friend for not only allaying distress in advance, but for assisting nature in assuring a speedy recovery for the mother.

So thoroughly has Mother's Friend proven its wonderful efficiency in thousands of cases, that any expectant mother who does not employ its use as directed deprives herself of a powerful agent for her relief and well-being, during the period of pending maternity, and of her prospects for an easier delivery when the eventful hour arrives.

The women who appreciate Mother's Friend the most, and who are loudest in their praise of it, are those who unfortunately did not use it with their first baby and who, thru its use with the second one, were able to fully realize the almost unbelievable relief it gave.

Mrs. Olive Vanden, 10 Grape St., Gallipolis, Ohio, says:

"Before using Mother's Friend I suffered from Wednesday 'till Sunday. With my next child I used Mother's Friend and was sick only about three hours."

Many doctors and nurses recommend Mother's Friend. For external use—is perfectly harmless. Begin its use at once. Sold by all druggists.

WARNING: Avoid using plain oils, greases and substitutes—they act only on the skin and may cause harm without doing good.

Christmas Caroling To Take Many Forms This Year

The custom of outdoor carol singing on Christmas Eve, which has been spreading through the country so rapidly during the past few years, has in the course of its extension developed different characteristics in various cities, which are coming in for serious discussion, now that the Yuletide season is approaching, by community workers and others who will organize this year's singing groups. The National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, which made a survey of the cities in which caroling through the streets was done last year, at the same time made a study of the methods followed in rehearsing and costuming the itinerant bands, mapping out the districts to be covered, selecting stopping places, and collecting funds for charitable purposes where this was a feature of the arrangements.

This study shows that where the town has a Community Christmas Tree in some central place it is usual for the carolers to meet and sing in a body around the tree before dividing up into groups to visit the residential sections In the absence of a general rendezvous the starting place of each group is as a rule the church, school house or community center where it has been rehearsed There are rarely more than 25 singers in a band and rarely less than 10 They are for the most part young people, although it has been found that the presence of a few older folks lends dignity and insures close adherence to the business in hand.

Many cities are following the plan first adopted and most thoroughly worked out in Detroit, of mapping out the entire city so that every neighborhood may be served and the routes of the traveling singers may not conflict. Lighted candles in the windows are the signal to the carolers to stop and give their music. It has also been the practice in Detroit to collect money during the singing for the local Children's Aid Society, so that music may be the means of bringing material help to the unfortunates while giving spiritual pleasure to those who performed and those who listen. Last year over 8,000 volunteers recruited from Y. M. and Y W. C. A.'s, Sunday school, high schools, settlements and clubs joined together to form the Community Christmas Carolers, covering the city with "miles of song."

In Dallas, Texas, Roanoke, Va., Greeley, Colo and many other cities in the south and west the places visited were mainly hospitals and homes for the aged and the shut-ins, the carolers often wearing red camoric caps and capes over their outer garments, in the style of the "waits" of old England, to bring with them a Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia, an experiment was made with trained singers societies, who received funds for their services, but whose no compensation, and collected no funds for their services, but whose organizations were given a certain sum for charitable work by P. J. Heppe, a prominent resident in the district visited. This year it is honed to extend the plan by having many citizens contribute.

Cities in which the Community have their caroling plans worked out by that organization acting either independently or in co-operation with local individuals and groups. Last year the Community Service included In its preparations a campaign to teach the public "a carol a day" in order that young and old might join in the singing. This campaign will be given even more attention this year. To stimulate the learning of the carol words and music the national headquarters of the organization has issued a word sheet of Christmas carols and a bulletin entitled "Stories of the Christmas Carols" by Professor Peter W. Dykema of the University of Wisconsin, who has made extensive research into the origin and history of these traditional songs. In that bulletin Professor Dykema has given some of the beautiful legends that cling to "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen," "Hark the Herald Angels Sings," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and others of the best known carols.

Our investment in Virginia is nearly fifteen million dollars.

What Is Meant By "Net Earnings?"

THE net earnings of an enterprise is the money left from revenues after expenses are paid. Judged solely as a sum of money—without relation to anything else—the net earnings of a public utility such as ours may seem large.

The meaning of net earnings can be determined only when they are related to the investment in the property.

The net earnings of this company for the year 1921, based on nine months, will be $779,000, which may seem a large sum.

But our investment in Virginia is nearly $15,000,000, so that the net earnings are about five and one-quarter per cent. on the investment.

Compared with the present high rates for money prevailing, this is a very modest rate of return.

Correspondence

Honorable Westmoreland Davis,
Governor of Virginia,
Richmond, Virginia.
Dear Governor Davis:

I note with some interest your reply to a gentleman from Applegrove, Louisa County, Virginia, to the effect that if elected to the United States Senate you would join the "agricultural bloc" in Congress.

This to the end "to relieve our farmers of the grevious economic burdens under which they are staggering."

It is rather difficult to see how an economic situation can be transformed into a legislative situation and admittedly as you state the whole trouble with the farmer is entirely due to economic conditions.

While reared on a farm and having every sympathy for the farmer I fail to grasp why the whole political structure of the nation should be torn down and reconstructed along the ideas of the farmers or any other class for that matter and if we do not cease to endeavor to solve economic problems by illy conceived legislation the country will be in a bad way indeed.

To my mind the proper way to legislate is for the good of the country as a whole and not for some integral part thereof.

All realize that agriculture constitutes the basis of the prosperity of our country but legislators must not lost sight of the fact that a well ordered and prosperous industrial life is in its very essence essential to the posperity of the farmer for if industry is not prosperous then labor cannot purchase the produce of the farmer.

Industry with each census ranks higher and higher in importance in the Old Dominion and it would almost appear that from the peculiarly favorable geographical location of the State of Virginia, her great seaport and gateways to the South, that the future of Virginia lies not so much in its development as an agrarian State as in its development as a manufacturing State.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN B. GORDON.

MOTHER, QUICK! GIVE
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP
FOR CHILD'S BOWELS

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Ireland Grateful for America's Aid

This wall, once a portion of a chemists' shop, is the only wall left standing in Patrick Street, Cork, Ireland, following the conflagration which left the city a mass of ruins. (Insert) James Douglas, treasurer of the Irish White Cross.

JAMES DOUGLAS, treasurer of the Irish White Cross, is in this country with a message from his organization, thanking the American people for their contributions for the sufferers in Ireland, made to the American Committee for Relief in Ireland of which Justice Morgan J. O'Brien is chairman, and Thomas F. Ryan, E. L. Doheny, John D. Ryan, Nicholas F. Brady, and other prominent Americans have taken an active part. The White Cross has charge of the distribution of the American Committee's funds.

According to a statement made by Mr. Douglas immediately upon his arrival, relief from this country arrived at a time when the Irish people were in most desperate straits. Without funds from the American Committee, the relief work could not have continued, he said, and widespread desolation of whole sections of Ireland would undoubtedly have followed.

Mr. Douglas is a Quaker and has taken no part in party politics. The work of his organization, begun a year ago at a time of the most bitter warfare, has been conducted on a non-partisan, non-political basis. Relief has been given to non-combatant women and children on both sides of the Irish struggle. Protestants and Catholics, Jews and Gentiles, have worked side by side in a national effort to relieve suffering, and Mr. Douglas says that the White Cross is providing one of the "most influential forces for promoting the peace that every Irishman desires."

"It is the suffering of the innocents, the women and children, that is the hardest to witness," said Mr. Douglas. "No one can estimate what the effects of constant warfare will be on the future generations of Irish. There have been, however, an unprecedented number of premature births due to fright on the part of mothers, and medical men predict that children born in the days of such desolation will grow up heavily handicapped. A nurse in the south of Ireland told me that the number of premature births in her neighborhood has increased threefold since the fighting started in 1920."

There are but thirty paid workers in the White Cross. All over-head expense is borne by the Irish. Every cent contributed by Americans goes directly for relief work.

The new guard was not familiar with a certain railway run in Wales. Came a station which rejoiced in the name Llanfairfechanywllgogerych. For a few minutes he stood looking at the signboard in mute helplessness. Then pointing to the board, and waving his other arm toward the carriages, he called, "If there's anybody there for here, this is it!"—Western Christian Advocate, Cincinnati.

Three Months of American Victims in Mexico

The following record of murder, assault and robbery, in which Americans have been the victims of Mexicans within the last few months, is furnished by the National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico. That association has kept the murder score for several years and the sotal is now upwards of 500 Americans slain. During the first six months of the Obregon regime there was a notable decrease from the frightful averages of the Carranza period. The number of Americans in Mexico has increased several thousands, as a result of reports that "complete order has been restored." Americans are again venturing away from the cities and railway lines, and the murder reports are showing a startling increase.

The record from August 18 to October 24 follows:

AUGUST 18, 1921: Bennett Boyd, aged 18, of El Paso, Texas, ambushed and murdered by Mexican bandits on Caretas ranch, about sixty miles south of Hachita. Bennett's two older brothers had been held for ransom after capture by bandits on the same ranch six years previously. The ransom of $5,000 was paid and no arrests were ever made.

AUGUST 25, 1921: Mexican bandits shot Frank J. Pearson, postmaster at Ruby, Ariz., without warning while he stood in the doorway of his store. His wife fired at them and was instantly shot dead. Lizzie Durgell, aged 13, fought the bandits with her fists, while her sister Irene, aged 18, fled with Marjorie Pearson, aged 5. Lizzie was shot through the hand and then escaped through a window. The three girls walked twelve miles to Arivaca.

AUGUST 26, 1921: David T. Richards, American plantation owner, killed by Mexicans at Chicomuselo. Death reported by American Consul at Salina Cruz. Richards' home was near Tapachula.

SEPTEMBER 14, 1921: Miss Sadie Champion of Warren, Ariz. Murder reported by American Consul at Chihuahua.

SEPTEMBER 17, 1921: Mrs. Ida Baez, (two miles south of Bisbee), was captured by Mexican bandits, who shot her horse from under her when she came upon them accidentally while they were stealing a calf on her ranch. They beat and kicked her and started to cut out her tongue. When found there were knife wounds about her mouth. Her injuries were not fatal.

SEPTEMBER 18, 1921: Carl R. Tabb, American employe of the Mexican Petroleum Company, shot and killed by Mexican soldiers in the oil fields near Tampico. American Consul made representations to the Mexican Government. Soldiers reported the killing was accidental.

SEPTEMBER 27, 1921: H. C. Smith, of Vinita, Okla., and E. B. Kilsingbury, of Los Angeles, Cal., mining men, were murdered by a Mexican at Dolores, Chihuahua. Murder reported by American Vice Consul at Chihuahua.

SEPTEMBER 29, 1921: Fourteen American mining men, on their way from Jauco to Cinco, were held up by bandits and robbed of papers and money. They were not injured.

OCTOBER 6, 1921: Two Texans named Baez, owners of a livery stable in Tampico, killed with knives.

OCTOBER 8, 1921: Henry Lafianne, American member of U. S. Shipping Board steamer "Salem County," on shore leave in Tampico, stabbed to death by unidentified Mexican. American Consul telegraphed to Mexico City to ask for arrest of murderer.

OCTOBER 13, 1921: Dr. M. S. Green, physician, of Columbus, N. Mex., found dead beside his automobile between Accenaion and Casas Grandes, State of Chihuahua, 120 miles south of American border. Four bullets in body. Evidence indicated he was fixing a tire when shot. No arrests.

OCTOBER 18, 1921: Jim Davis, of El Paso, overseas vetsran, killed at Tampico. No details. No arrests.

OCTOBER 24, 1921: Lloyd Burlingham, American Consul at Salina Cruz, stabbed by an unidentified Mexican. Not fatal. Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs expressed regret and promised investigation.

Starving Russians Helped by Their Friends Here Through Hoover Plan

This Russian mother has laid her famished baby on a bed of straw and is watching over the little one, while the father is scouting around the countryside in quest of food. They are refugees in flight from the famine area, but, like tens of thousands of others, with little hope of winning the race with hunger, unless help comes quickly.

It was to save just such families as this that the American Relief Administration, headed by Herbert Hoover, has instituted the Food Remittance system which permits residents of the United States to buy and have delivered to friends or relatives in Russian from $10 to $50 forth of foodstuffs. Flour, condensed milk, beans, rice, hominy, cooking fats, sugar, and tea or cocoa comprise the balanced rations that are delivered to the recipient of each remittance.

One-quarter of the food authorized by each Food Remittance is turned over to the free mass child-feeding kitchens of the American Relief Administration. In this way the purchaser of the remittance is given the privilege of contributing to the assistance of the 1,200,000 Russian children the A. R. A. will take care of this winter. At the same time the recipient of the remittance gets as much food as the sender could purchase at retail in the United States. This because of wholesale buying, bulk shipping and free service in Russia. The A. R. A. guarantees delivery to the recipient at the warehouse nearest his home. These warehouses are being established and stocked with food in all parts of Russia.

Persons desiring to purchase Food Remittances may apply either in person or by mail to the Russian Department, American Relief Administration, 42 Broadway, New York City. They will receive a blank form which they must fill out and return to the A. R. A. with a money order. The remittances are forwarded by mail to the London office of the A. R. A., thence by courier to Moscow, from where they are distributed to the proper warehouses. The recipients are then notified to come to the warehouses and get their food.
